Overview

An intrinsic pursuit of defense and advocating for others pervades Allison's whole life: whether that means volunteering at her local animal shelter, or arguing for her clients, she fulfills the call to stand for others.

Allison enjoys the complexity of legal matters, viewing them as an opportunity to learn and sharpen her problem-solving acumen. She previously honed her skills at another law firm drafting and reviewing complaints and summons, composing answers to discovery requests, and preparing for mediations.

In her free time, you can find Allison and her rescue dog Millie exploring hiking spots. She is also always looking for new books to read, new restaurants to try, and traveling whenever the opportunity arises.
