Overview

Erin Anderson lives by her father's daily wisdom: "It's the first day of the rest of your life." This philosophy fuels her competitive spirit, not against others, but against yesterday's version of herself. Inspired by witnessing her father's dedication to clients at his Atlanta financial management firm, she pursued a career in law where she puts her intellectual curiosity to work.

During her first year at law school in 2022, Erin served as Case Manager for The Innocence Project. Her excellence in International Criminal Law earned her the CALI Excellence for the Future Award during her study abroad program focused on humanitarian and war crime law. This academic journey led to travel and study in Australia, Dubai, Switzerland, Belgium, Greece, The Netherlands, Germany, Poland, Austria, and Czechia.

Erin's competitive drive extends beyond her professional life. Each morning finds her at the gym, challenging her previous cardio times and strength training achievements. When not traveling the world to experience new cultures, Erin cheers for the Pittsburgh Steelers or hikes mountain trails accompanied by her Australian Shepherd, German Shepherd, and three Bengal kittens. She and her partner also recently renovated a house they purchased together.
