

Hedrick Gardner's Central Office Relocating to Upscaled Dwelling

April 18, 2022

CHARLOTTE, April 18, 2022 — Exciting changes come to fruition as Hedrick Gardner moves into their freshly renovated facility in Charlotte's Rotunda building at 4201 Congress Street, in Suite 300, on April 15th.

The new look features an industrial vibe with open ceilings and exposed brick accent walls, along with a functional floor plan to enhance a collaborative feel. Glass office partitioning and large-paned outer windows create an illuminating effect throughout the floor. Black framed office fronts further tie together the uniquely refined theme. This updated interior reflects the law firm's forward-thinking attitude and modern appeal to provide a welcoming environment for visitors and clients.

This relocation supplements a concerted initiative by the firm to go paperless and reduce its carbon footprint, utilizing the space for green-friendly alternatives to bulky print equipment and document archives.

Additionally, the site features two outdoor patio areas perfect for firm events and gatherings while providing a refreshing change of scenery for its occupants.

"Our partnership is very excited about the move to this great location. This space provides a welcoming and comfortable environment for our staff, attorneys, and visitors," remarked Paul Lawrence, Hedrick Gardner's Managing Partner. "We are particularly pleased with the floor plan, which was intentionally developed to enhance workflow and synergy among our team."
