Jarrold integrates law and practicality to assess each case thoroughly, delivering clarity and results for his clients while maintaining focus on the big picture. Using a steady, practiced hand, he builds and reinforces every case with critical details in his defense strategy preparation.

During law school, Jarrold earned the Graduate Student Service Impact Award and the 3L Pro Bono Student of the Year Award for his legal work in the community. He was also a founding student attorney of the Consumer Financial Transaction Clinic.

Prior to joining Hedrick Gardner, Jarrold established himself as a trusted resource at the Cabarrus County District Attorney's Office. During his tenure as an Assistant District Attorney, he successfully tried numerous felony cases and oversaw hundreds of bench trials. In addition to handling large felony caseloads, Jarrold became a critical asset due to his extensive knowledge of motor vehicle offenses.

Jarrold was born and raised in the Blue Ridge Mountains of North Carolina and revisits as often as time allows. Outside of work, Jarrold enjoys fly fishing and exploring the outdoors and small beach towns with his wife and two daughters.
